A ROSE BY ANY OTHER NAME

Rana Willit Member # 1302

We all know how important it is to get the names correct in genealogical research. We go on the hunt armed with the name, date of birth, and date of death of each person we are researching. But sometimes we are stopped by seemingly incorrect details. Don't let one detail stop you. The facts might be wrong!

My 3rd great grandmother died when she was two years old. It was there in black and white. The right name, the right two parents, and the right time frame. Of course, the French were known to give the same name to multiple siblings. My 3rd great grandmother had an older sister of the same name who was born in 1776 and died in 1777. My Cecelia LABADIE was born in 1778 and lived a long and fruitful life.

My 2nd great grandmother was a mystery. We knew her name to be Eliza SANTURE. It was on her death record, it was on her tombstone, it was what all the family said she was named. In searching for her marriage record, we found her father's name to be Dominic TESSIER; her mother's name was correct. Who was Dominic? We couldn't find any other records linking him to our tree until one late night web session when we made the connection. My sister and I yelled so loud in jubilation that her husband came barreling down the stairs sure there was something wrong! Nope, we just found out for sure that Great Great Grandmother Eliza was named Euphrosine TESSIER. Then she became known as Eliza SANTURE dit TESSIER, then just Eliza SANTURE. Having the correct name, I was able to find a baptismal record in a book that had been on my shelf since 1975! (Bay Settlement by Father Lavoie). Although she was born to parents who attended St Antoine Church in Monroe, MI she was christened at St Joseph Church in Erie, MI.

A ROSE BY ANY OTHER NAME

My grandmother (Eliza's granddaughter) was named Eliza Paulina RIVARD, but was always called Lena. The only record calling her Eliza Paulina was her baptismal record. Her school records, birth record with the state, marriage record, death certificate and tombstone call her Lena. My other grandmother was named Michelina LYSKAWA. Most of her records, except her immigration record, marriage record, and tombstone called her Lena. When I named by daughter after my two grandmothers, I stuck to the simple--she is just Lena.

My dad's name was Aloysius Joseph JOBLINSKI, according to his baptismal record. He was always called Allie or Alec. A home birth, he needed an official birth certificate to get a pilot's license. He had to present two witnesses who knew him and could verify his birth to get a delayed Certificate of Birth. He took two elderly neighbor ladies to testify they'd known him since birth, declaring his name to be Allie. So, Allie he became and remained the rest of his life. (He offered to take the two ladies up in his plane when he got his pilot's license, but only one would do it. He said she screeched and laughed and had a good time, especially when he buzzed the home place!) All his records report his name to be Allie: his new birth certificate, marriage license, death certificate, and tombstone. Only the baptismal record uses the name Aloysius.

My brother was named Charles August JOBLINSKI when he was born, but no one outside of the immediate family knows his name is Charles. My Grandmother took one look at the newborn and declared "He looks just like Gus." So, Gus (or Gussie) he became, a reminder of my Grandfather August WICKENHEISER. Thus while all legal documents call him Charles, he has always been, and always will be Gus. Don't go looking for Gus's records--not a single document will have that name. Maybe "Gus" will go on his tombstone eventually, but that will be his wife's call.

Now back to a more recent find in the search for my ancestors. I wanted to get a copy of my Great Grandmother's baptismal record. The daughter of Eliza (aka Euphrasine) SANTSURE and the mother of Lena (aka Eliza Paulina) RIVARD, I should have known it wouldn't be that easy. But I had irrefutable proof her name was Rose or Rose Anna. It was on her marriage papers, death certificate and tombstone. There are six generations of little girls named Rose in her honor, and certainly her own mother and daughter knew her name! Nope. Her name wasn't Rose. On the microfiche copy of her baptism, there she is, right parents, right parish, right date of birth. Her name? Catherine Rosalie LEDUC! Well, it is Catherine Rosalie, but still, it is Catherine. A name I had never heard associated with my great grandmother.

The point to all this? Don't insist that the facts fit your perception of things. Names were changed, nicknames were used on official documents, middle names were used, and the original first names forgotten in time. Before the advent of Social Security and the proper documentation required today, our ancestors played fast and easy with names, and even in my generation sometimes the nickname became the only name the person was ever known by. Of course, getting the name correct is vital in citing our research. But that correct name we could swear by may not be correct after all. Just keep an open mind. Happy researching!

MY THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF DIANNE BATCH

Sherry Huntington, Member #10

Dianne was friendly, kind, and very funny. She genuinely loved people.

She joined the Downriver Genealogical Society in 2008. Dianne became our Recording Secretary in January 2011 and stayed in that position until her recent death.

Our society was given 60 years of old Mellus & News-Herald Newspapers in November of 2012. We formed the Newspaper Digitizing Project (NDP) in early 2013. Dianne also served as Recording Secretary of this important committee. She was a volunteer scanner and digitized many newspaper pages. She truly enjoyed doing this.

Several months ago we purchased a larger format scanner. All scanner volunteers had to be retrained on the new scanner. I only heard Dianne complain once. She said, "the new scanner is so fast I don't have time to read the articles!"

There was always a smile on her face. It made me feel good just being around her. More than anything, Dianne was my friend and I will truly miss her.

THE FAITH OF OUR FATHERS

Rana Willit Member # 1302

When talking about Religion, a phrase often heard is "My family has been (insert denomination) forever. In the case of the WICKENHEISER family, that is all but true. Any WICKENHEISER can say "My family has been Catholic forever." And mean it.

The first ancestor we found who bore the WICKENHEISER name was Johannes, or Hans WICKENHAUSER born c. 1610. The name was first documented in the 1300s in Ravensburg Germany, west of Munich. WICKENHAUSEN means "Settlement of Wiggo." According to the dictionary of Medieval Names wiggo is a euphemism of various names beginning with the old High German "wic" meaning war or battle. Hans lived in Elsenz and is the first WICKENHAUSER entry in the Ortssippenbuch Elsenz church records. There were other WICKENHAUSERS in the area, but their relationship to Hans is unknown. The family was very influential in Elsenz and several drawings exist where they are the subject of the cartoon.

The WICKENHAUSERS came from the Palatinate, part of the Holy Roman Empire during the Reformation. In 1619 when Hans was around 9 years old, Frederick V accepted the Bohemian crown, an event which contributed to the beginning of the 30 years' war. Deaths from warfare and starvation during this war numbered over eight million people. Many villages were entirely obliterated by slaughter, disease, and hunger. Finally, the war ended with the Peace of Westphalia. The head of state was no longer allowed to force his subjects to change to a state religion. However, to remain Catholic, you had to pay taxes to support the national religion and were subject to discrimination. In Elsenz, the Catholics could go to church in neighboring cities, but had to have their baptism, marriage, and burial ceremonies performed by the Reformed Pastor. All records were recorded in the Reformed Church record books and were kept that way until 1657. Catholic Church records began again in 1699.

In 1685 all religions were allowed, and vacant government positions could be filled by persons of any faith. However, churches, presbyteries and income remained Reformation possessions, so Catholics had to hold their services in private homes or other personal areas. In Elsenz the Catholic Masses were held in a barn. There was great opposition from the Reformists to this policy. This led to dissention and disruption. One source cites "On 5th Sunday after Easter in 1686 the Katholiken found the "front door of the barn was so smeared with human excrement and a large stench, that they had to look for another place."

During all this religious discrimination WICKENHAUSERS were local leaders in the Catholic Community. Catholics were not allowed their own cemeteries but had to use the ones owned by the Reformed Church. This caused much disturbance, especially at the first funerals in Elsenz. There was an infamous episode in August of 1686, when a Catholic boy died, and his father tried to hold a mass in front of the Reformed Church and cemetery. The Reformed minister told them to go to WICKENHAUSER'S house to perform the ceremony. The Catholics returned from the WICKENHAUSER house with many more Catholics. A brawl began when the Catholic priest had the coffin of the boy set down in front of the cemetery and began the ceremony. There was fist fighting, hair pulling and such. Ultimately the Catholics took the coffin away and held the funeral mass elsewhere, then returned to the churchyard to bury the child without a Priest present.

THE FAITH OF OUR FATHERS

Hans WICKENHAUSER (1648-1724) was born near the end of the Thirty Years' War. He was called Hans the Younger and was known as an honorable and great man. From history we know his life was full of war, religious strife, and public service. He was the father of Johann WICKENHAUSER (1683-1780) who was a blacksmith, and later an innkeeper. Johann was the father of Johann Adam WICKENHAUSER (1732-1801), who was a farmer and the father of Johann Adam WICKENHAUSER (1759-1829), a master butcher. His son Franz Josef WICKENHAUSER (1788-1837) was the first of this family to live in Rohrbach. He was a ploughman; both of his brothers were farmers. Franz died at age 49 years, shortly after his youngest child was born. Germany was slowly recovering from 1816, known as the "Year without a summer." The industrialization of the 1800's created new jobs, but also led to the failure of many farms and cottage industries.

Franz was the father of five sons, all of whom immigrated to America. One of those sons was Josef Anton WICKENHAUSER (or Anton Josef; it was written both ways). He married Thekla REBEL in Germany and they began a family. In 1865 the couple and their children Nickolas, age 14; Maria, age 9; and Rosa, age 7 booked passage on the steamship Oder. Anton was listed as a merchant, and they were able to purchase cabin tickets. Their ultimate destination was Ash Township Michigan, where the family once again worked as farmers and dairymen.

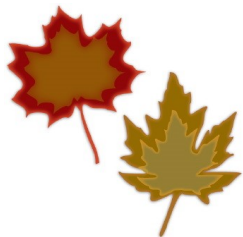

Nikolaus remained in Michigan and was the father of August John (Gus) WICKENHEISER. August married a Godly woman, Eliza Paulina (Lena) RIVARD and raised a large family with ideals of thrift, family and faith. The WICKENHEISER family continues to be a force in the Catholic Church to this day.

So, yes. When a WICKENHEISER says "We've been Catholic forever!" they mean it. And we can prove it, at least as far back as 1610. What a Blessed heritage.

FASCINATING PEOPLE -- MONTH BY MONTH

by Gloria Saluk Member # 1053

Sometimes, I think my fascinating people are starting to write these articles without me. It seems they are seeking me out, wanting me to tell their stories. They obviously got a sneak peak at our speakers for the next few months, because their stories dovetail nicely with our upcoming presentations.

NOVEMBER - Todd Brighton was scheduled to talk on "Patriots: Everyday Citizens and the Founding of America 1775-1815." Know who would have fit in back then? William Louis DE-BO (1955-2018), of Grosse Ile. Louis would pilot his boat along the shores of Grosse Ile, the Detroit River, and Lake Erie in the tradition of his forebears. He walked the marshlands and scouted the woods where a Potawatami village had once been. Let Louis tell you in his own words. "Some Things Never Change: It's a somber day along the shoreline of old Grosse Ile. The sky above with it's various shades of gray casts down shadows on the water below creating surreal images of time gone by....I listen. Could it be the distant drums of the Potawatami that I hear? Or, across the way in the marshland, dissipating from the musket of a French voyageur, could it be autumn's familiar thunderous sound at harvest time? ...(its just) the many sounds that have come and gone along the shoreline of old Grosse Ile.--Nov. 1994."

NOVEMBER. Todd Brighton cancelled so Lenore Bolthouse (AKA Rosie Lenore) will speak on the "Yankee Air Museum Rosies". Clara CANNING (died 2003) of Taylor was one such woman. In 1942, she worked at Ford Motor Company and was one of many "Rosie the Riveters", working at the bomber plant at Willow Run Airport. She worked on the radio operators' seat mounts and camera mounts for the B24 Liberator Bombers. In 1999, she was interviewed in "Empires of Industry, War Planes of World War II." a program aired on the History Channel. As a result of that show, Clara was selected by the U. S. Postal Service to give a speech when it unveiled its 1940s stamps commemorating "Rosie the Riveter" on July 29, 1999.

DECEMBER - NO MEETING This is the holiday season, which makes me think of Marjorie DOUTE (died 2001). She worked for over 40 years for the Lincoln Park Parks and Recreation Department. As such, she was instrumental in creating several programs and was one of the founders of Fantasyland. This will be the 55th annual Fantasyland, with its wonderful holiday displays, treats, and a chance to talk to Santa himself!

And as January, 2020 is the 40th anniversary of the Downriver Genealogical Society, let us take a moment to remember Mary E. DeLISLE of Lincoln Park (died 1996). She founded the Lincoln Park Historical Society and was a charter member of DRGS and established our genealogical library in the Lincoln Park Historical Museum, where we were "small but mighty". Where would we be without her?

Our library's move to the Flat Rock School Administration Building (at 28639 Division Street) has been a rousing success. We have received many donations of books. Our new hours are Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays from 11 am to 4 pm. Our telephone number is now 734-535-6530. Come down and check us out!

FAMILY RECIPE

Rosemary Joblinski Bruck's Homemade Bread
Submitted by Rana Joblinski Willit Member # 1302

In medium bowl mix
2 packets dry yeast
1 teaspoon sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup warm water

Set aside to let yeast work

In large mixing bowl mix

1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons Crisco
3 tablespoons sugar
 $1 \frac{3}{4}$  cups warm water
3 cups all purpose flour

Stir well, then add the yeast mixture and still till well mixed. Batter will be quite thin.

Add 3 to 4 cups more flour and stir/knead well. The key to great bread is making sure you knead it enough. Dough should be elastic and slightly sticky.

Cover with dishtowel and place in a warm place to rise. Once it is risen to approximately twice original size, punch down and let rise again. The second time punch down and divide into 3 or 4 pieces (depends on your loaf pan size). Knead between your hands until the ball of dough is soft and smooth. Place in well-greased loaf pan and cover to rise again. When twice the size place in pre heated oven to bake until golden brown.

350 degrees, 20-25 minutes.

When done, turn out of the loaf pan and brush melted butter over the top of the bread.
Enjoy!

QUERY SUBMISSION SUGGESTIONS

The Seeker is always happy to publish queries. You never know who might have the missing puzzle piece to complete your research. Queries for the newsletter should be given to a DRGS Board member or sent to the newsletter email address at info@downrivergenealogy.org.

Focus on what you are looking for. Be specific, the more information you can include the better your results. Your query can be regarding a family surname, individual, event, location, research problems, etc. Use phrases like "Need marriage date & location of..." or "Seeking parents of..." Use immediate family surnames in main paragraph of query. Capitalize all surnames you are researching.

Don't include too much detail; you want to get the reader's attention easily and quickly. Be as specific as you can. Where are you searching? If you don't know the town, use the county or area of the state. Keep in mind that boundaries may have changed, and mention that if it applies.

What time-frame? If you don't have exact dates use phrases such as "bet. 1858-1870", or "abt. 1760" or "circa 1790". Only make one request per query.

Be sure to include your name and email address or home address.
